

Third-Generation Family Roofing Business Awarded for Safety Program

Joliet, Ill., January 28, 2010- Adler Roofing and Sheet Metal Inc. today announced that it has received the Safety Award from the Chicago Roofing Contractors Association (CRCA). The American Subcontractors Association (ASA) also recognized the firm earlier this year for its safety program.

The CRCA Safety Award is presented to a CRCA Member in recognition of an outstanding safety record and appreciation of a conscientious effort to promote safe conditions throughout the industry. Upon receiving this honor, Mike Adler, vice president and safety director of Adler Roofing and Sheet Metal Inc. said, "We appreciate and recognize the hard work and dedication of all of our field employees. They consistently made an effort to make our job sites safe."

In 2010 the company will continue monthly foreman training as well as conduct job site audits and respond to employee feedback. All of these procedures directly contributed to Adler Roofing receiving this award.

Adler Roofing and Sheet Metal Inc. is a third-generational family business operating in Joliet, Illinois since 1926. They are a member of the Midwest Roofing Contractors Association, Chicago Roofing Contractors Association, Contractors Association of Will and Grundy Counties, Chicago American Subcontractors Association and the Joliet Region of Chamber of Commerce & Industry.
