Prate Installations, Inc.

For 37 years Michael A. Prate has been making a point of being a leader in the Chicagoland roofing industry as far as service, quality and safety. The success and steady growth of Prate Installations is largely attributed to the hands on operation policy of its owner to assure dependability, integrity and true craftsmanship. Over the years, Prate Installations, Inc. has amassed an impressive list of builders, contractors and tens of thousands of homeowners who depend on the services they provide.

Prate Installations, Inc. maintains its leadership position through sincere customer service by continually investing in the state-of-the-art field and office equipment. Each employee is chosen on the basis of his or her individual expertise. This ever expanding base of knowledge and experience keeps the company current with the newest techniques of modern roofing and business management.

Along with all of the other time consuming elements of growing and running a business, Michael Prate has also made it a top priority to improve the image of roofing contractors throughout Chicagoland to the general public.
